I hope you will close this long period of bickering among some of the Microsoft competitors and allegations against Microsoft. They, Microsoft, have offered much to the public to make computer use faster and more useable. Please let those fighting them, know that nothing more can be accomplished by dragging this on through the courts. Let them get on with their work and those that are complaining get busy developing their own products to better serve our nation.

This long battle is consuming too much money and time and is unproductive and to our economy and our reputation as a nation. We need to develop more integrity in the business world.

Yours truly, Shirley Munding
